Translation and interpretation

services—helping you communicate your business to the world.

Wherever life takes you

The growing number of diverse populations in the United States have brought about a need for businesses and personnel to communicate more effectively.

Nowhere is that more important than in health care. In this field, it's critically important to be able to communicate to patients accurately—in any language.

For more than 20 years, Dynamic Language has helped thousands of health-care providers communicate more effectively with their patients.

With language professionals who specialize in over 100 language and dialects, your translation and interpretation needs are well taken care of at Dynamic Language.

When your patients' lives depend on you for accurate information, contact us at 800.682.8242.

Skilled interpreters, 24-hours a day

When your business depends upon instant access to a highly qualified pool of spoken-language interpreters and American Sign Language experts, look no further than Dynamic Language. Because we understand the personal nature of health care, we track and match patients with the same interpreters on an on-going basis. Whether contacting your patients to confirm an appointment, or communicate post-op instructions, our rigorously screened, qualified interpreters are available—365-days a year, 24-hours a day—throughout the Puget Sound region, and for live phone interpretation anywhere else in the world.

Materials translated into any language

For written information that's distributed to patients—from post-treatment care pamphlets to consent forms—it's equally important for these materials to maintain a high-degree of accuracy and comprehension. For that reason, we only work with native-speaking translators, so your documents communicate your message—to any audience.

Accurate, consistent, reliable

Firmly rooted in the belief that exceptional language services start with quality customer service and end with quality-controlled accuracy, each Dynamic Language translation project is managed by an assigned project coordinator to ensure that your specific needs are met on time, every time. For your convenience, Dynamic Language also offers a full suite of graphic design services to ensure your documents maintain the professional styles and standards used in your originals.

Project updates at your fingertips

To keep you up to speed, Dynamic Language's Web-based project management and file transfer system allows you to easily review and track all of your translation projects and interpreting assignments. You can verify that an interpreter has been scheduled with just one click. As with all of our in-person interactions, all Web-based client information is kept secure and confidential.
